Opening Day Speech Targets Constitution Conflict

The following is the speech
presented by NTA
President Philip Cordella to in-service members
September 4, 2007.

"We mentioned 6 months ago in our newsletter, The Pendulum, that the differences between some retired teachers and the NTA may wind up in court. Today I am announcing that 4 retired teachers have taken the NTA President, myself, and the NTA Treasurer, Angela Sartori, as representatives of your union, to court over two basic issues.

1. They believe they have the right to vote on the terms and conditions of your employment or, in other words, this green book, your contract.

2. They also believe they have the right to vote in elections for the four in-service officers - President, Vice President, Treasurer, and Secretary - the people who, with your support, run our union. These are the official elections we hold for officers, every three years.

The 4 retirees who are suing us believe our NTA Constitution supports their argument. We Disagree.

Therefore, I am reporting to you today three very important things:

First - A constitutional review committee has been meeting to clarify the language and that that committee will be making its recommendations shortly. Once announced, in the form of formal motions, the constitutional process of amending our constitution will begin. We will then be calling upon all of you to come to an informational meeting and then vote, by secret ballot, for or against the changes, at subsequent building based faculty meetings.

Second - I believe much of the underlying motive of the lawsuit is the fear of some retirees, that all of you some day, - everyone in this room - will vote to take away one of the greatest benefits we have, fully paid retiree health insurance. I am today, and I hope each of you urge each other in the future, when I am no longer your President, never, never to agree to this.

Third - What I have said today will be published in a special edition of the Pendulum, along with the exact changes and explanation. By sticking together and remaining united, our union, the Newburgh Teachers' Association, will remain strong and effective.

Thank you and have a great year."

Motion to the September Board of Directors and Delegate Assembly
